The lectures in this series bring together philosophers, social scientists, curators, artists, performers, and media scholars who are exploring the changes that are taking place in today's society. In these turbulent times, artistic creation should keep these changes in mind. The lectures and discussions provide a theoretical background for various projects in the master's program 'Music and Scene in Transformation' (MUST). The lectures are open to students from other disciplines and the arts. Registration is requested.

Subject to change!
Please check the Instagramaccount of Music and Scene in Transformation again before the lectures to stay informed about any updates!
